White Zinc Paint

After thorough test in Europe and the United States, has been found to be the best and most profitable for the protection of iron and steel. For white color and gloss, it is unrivaled. It is free from all poisonous properties and completely safe for use on all surfaces. It will cover, equal weight for weight, any other paint. It is easily laid on, and therefore, much cheaper to use than any other. For outside work, it will last three years and when exposed to the sun, rain, salt water and frost, it will retain its color and gloss. White Zinc enamel paint produces the porcelain finish.

Brown and Black Zinc Paints

For iron bridges, a hard and elastic coating of iron with zinc, iron and other metals, such as copper, brass, and tin, is a very important protection. They are especially indicated for use on the hulls of ships and on the bottoms of boats, thereby having been found to resist the corrosion.

PATENTS.
American and Foreign Office,
AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
WITH U. S. PATENT OFFICE,
WASHINGTON.

No. 22 State Street, Boston.

In 1849, the agency was appointed by the Commissioner of Patents, Assistant of the U. S.
Patent Office, in accordance with the 10th Sec. of Act of 1837.

It is also authorized by the Agency for the transmission of drawings and models, and for the disposal of models, and for the preparation of the models of building them to the Patent Office, which by a Patent may be secured upon a feeble capital.

R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of Patents.
 WASHINGTON, JULY 27, 1899.
 During the time occupied by the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. EDDY, Esq., of Georgetown, business at the Patent Office has suffered very much, and it is regrettable that many of our applicants seeking that protection which the law guarantees them from the Patent Office, where there were men who conducted it with more skill, ability and energy than I have been able to do. I have been obliged to make up for the loss of the men who were removed and most faithful Patent Solicitors have fled to other States and have no hesitation in placing their patrons in the hands of persons who are not so skillful and reliable as the men who were removed. It is especially so in the case of those who have been early and favorable in competition at the Patent Office.

 Late Commissioner of Patents.
